India-Africa Seed Summit 2025

Seed is the foundation of agriculture, shaping the future of food security, economic stability, and sustainable farming. As the world grapples with climate change, diminishing arable land, rising input costs, and global supply chain disruptions, the seed industry stands at a critical juncture. The challenge is immense - feeding a rapidly growing global population while ensuring agricultural resilience and sustainability. However, innovation in seed technology, research-driven advancements, and cross-border collaborations provide a pathway to overcome these challenges. The global seed industry plays a crucial role in shaping the future of agriculture. It is projected to continue growing significantly, reflecting its importance in advancing modern agricultural practices. This dynamic sector drives innovation, supports food security, and fosters sustainability in agriculture worldwide.

India, with its diverse agro-climatic zones, advanced seed research, and robust regulatory ecosystem, has emerged as a global leader in seed innovation and production. Its expertise in hybrid seeds, biotechnology, and climate-resilient varieties has significantly enhanced agricultural productivity and food security. India's success offers valuable insights for Africa—a continent with abundant agricultural potential, expanding arable land, and a growing demand for quality seeds.

By leveraging India's technological strengths and Africa's natural resources, both regions can foster a mutually beneficial partnership to enhance productivity, resilience, and long-term food security.

The Indian Chamber of Food and Agriculture (ICFA), committed to advancing agriculture, is spearheading this collaborative effort. As a premier institution in policy advocacy, industry partnerships, and global engagement, ICFA plays a pivotal role in shaping strategies for a robust and resilient seed sector. Through this summit, ICFA seeks to convene global experts and stakeholders to explore new opportunities, address key challenges, and drive impactful change in the agricultural landscape.

Summit Objectives: Advancing Seed Sector Collaboration:-

- Foster India-Africa partnerships in seed research, production, and trade
- Promote innovation and investment in climate-resilient and high-yield seed varieties
- Strengthen regional seed systems and regulatory harmonization for seamless trade
- Facilitate knowledge exchange on best practices, technologies, and policy frameworks
- Encourage public-private partnerships to scale sustainable seed solutions
- Empower farmers through improved seed access and agronomic support
- Drive inclusive growth, food security, and agricultural resilience in both regions

Hyderabad : The Perfect Host for the India-Africa Seed Summit

Hyderabad, the vibrant capital of Telangana, is a hub of innovation, industry, and agricultural excellence. Renowned for its dynamic economy and world-class infrastructure, the city has emerged as a global leader in IT, biotechnology, seed production, and agribusiness—making it an ideal host for the India-Africa Seed Summit.

Recognized as the Seed Capital of India and Seed Hub of Asia, Hyderabad is home to over 400 seed companies, leading research institutions, and premier agricultural universities. It drives advancements in seed technology, high-yield crop varieties, and sustainable farming practices.

With its strategic location, strong research ecosystem, and robust industry presence, Hyderabad offers the perfect platform to strengthen India-Africa partnerships in the seed sector. The city also hosts several prominent national and international organizations, including ICRI SAT, CCMB, IIMR, IIRR, DOR, MANAGE, and NIRD among others.

Vibrant City The Perfect Choice for a Vibrant Event

India-Africa SEED Summit 2025:

Cultivating Partnerships for a Food-Secure Future

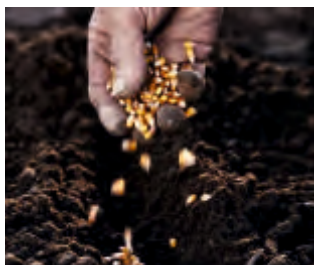

The India-Africa SEED Summit 2025 is a landmark initiative aimed at fostering deeper collaboration between India and Africa in the seed sector, unlocking new opportunities for trade, technology, and innovation. As both regions strive to enhance agricultural productivity and achieve food security, the summit serves as a pivotal platform to strengthen partnerships, address challenges, and promote sustainable solutions for the global seed industry.

India's Leadership in the Global Seed Economy

India has emerged as a global powerhouse in seed research, development, and trade, ranking among the top five seed economies worldwide. With a seed trade valued at more than USD 5 billion, India meets a significant portion of the seed demand across Asia and Africa. With a rapidly growing agritech ecosystem, government-backed initiatives, and active public-private sector collaboration, India is well-positioned to drive agricultural transformation, not just domestically but across Africa and other emerging markets.

Africa's Growing Demand for Quality Seeds

Africa is at a critical juncture in its agricultural journey. With smallholder farmers forming the backbone of the continent's agriculture, access to high-quality seeds, modern farming technologies, and efficient supply chains remains a pressing concern. With Africa's food imports expected to reach USD 100 billion by 2030, there is a critical need to boost domestic production, enhance seed security, and drive self-sufficiency. The India-Africa Seed Summit 2025 aims to bridge this gap by fostering collaboration, and technology transfer, ensuring that Africa benefits from India's expertise in seed innovation, research, and large-scale production.

Expo & Field Visits: Discover the Future of Seed Innovation and Technology

Exhibitors will have a unique opportunity to showcase the latest innovations, cutting-edge seed technologies, and agricultural solutions to a global audience. In addition, delegates will have the opportunity to participate in field visits to see facilities of a few leading seed companies and technology institutions such as ICRISAT, IIMR, IIRR etc. These visits will provide an exclusive behind-the-scenes look at the seed production, breeding techniques, processing, research and development practices, and infrastructure.

Why Be Part of the India-Africa SEED Summit 2025?

- Expand Global Market Reach
- Forge Strategic Collaborations
- Explore Cutting-Edge Technologies

About ICFA :

The Indian Chamber of Food and Agriculture (ICFA) is India's apex body in the food and agriculture sector, recognized by the Ministry of Commerce, Government of India. ICFA is dedicated to advancing business, policy, and development agendas. It serves as a global platform for facilitating trade, fostering partnerships, promoting agribusiness services, and advancing technology. The Chamber proactively identifies emerging challenges in agriculture while simultaneously creating opportunities for business collaboration, value addition, and international trade to drive growth in the sector. With 27 industry-specific Working Groups and Business Councils, ICFA represents the interests of key stakeholders at the national level and facilitates India's global engagement in food and agriculture.

About AFSTA :

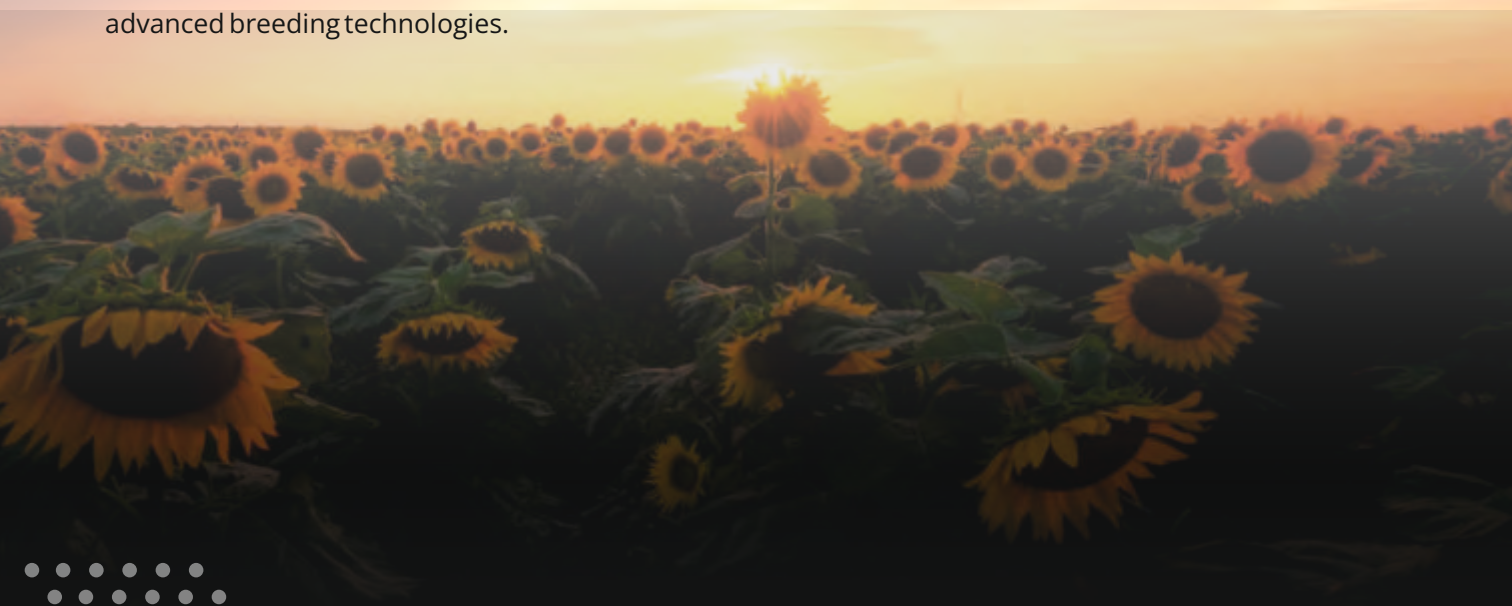

The African Seed Trade Association (AFSTA) is a leading organization committed to strengthening Africa's seed industry. It promotes the development, production, and distribution of high-quality seeds to boost agricultural productivity and ensure food security. AFSTA collaborates with policymakers, research institutions, and seed companies to build a robust seed sector. Through advocacy, trade facilitation, and capacity building, it enhances seed accessibility, supports innovative breeding technologies, and fosters resilient seed systems suited to diverse climates.

About NSAI (National Seed Association of India)

The National Seed Association of India (NSAI) is the apex body representing the Indian seed industry. Established to foster growth, innovation, and self-regulation within the sector, NSAI brings together a wide spectrum of stakeholders, including public and private seed companies, research institutions, and agri-professionals. With a mission to ensure farmers' access to high-quality seeds, NSAI actively engages in policy advocacy, promotes best practices, and facilitates dialogue between industry and government.

About FSII (Federation of Seed Industry of India)

The Federation of Seed Industry of India (FSII) is a leading industry association representing the interests of research-based seed companies in India. FSII is committed to promoting innovation, sustainable agriculture, and farmers' access to high-quality seeds through science-driven solutions. Comprising major national and multinational seed companies, FSII advocates for a robust policy and regulatory environment that encourages investment in research and development, particularly in biotechnology, hybrid seeds, and advanced breeding technologies.
